

The use and demand of English language has brought the language into a Global standard. English is considered the universal language. It has risen to an extent of Common tongue for International trade and business. English has its unique importance in our country and plays a crucial role in building modern India. Learning of English does not mean that we will evolve a slave mentality. Hence English should be encouraged to be learnt. It is an unavoidable fact that error do occur and arise out of learning. They should be Corrected and repaired to take the learner achieve English language effectively.

The researcher took under graduation learners to check their vocabulary, mother tongue interference, spoken difficulties, fear and oral fluency, by forming hypothesis. Learner Centred activities and Contextualization can develop negotiation and repair in English language learning process. Negotiation and repair effectively be used as a tool to develop English language acquisition in English language classroom.