

Business Intelligence through Application software's

Today's business decisions are taking help of technology for the purpose of data mining. As the technology is progressing, we are making it easier and more efficient to base our business decisions on the same. This subject enables us to study how the application software's are helping in taking business decisions affecting the business intelligence. Dashboards, Data mining tools which will help us to record data, leading to business intelligence